Its such a shame that nine of the states and the Federal Government have reached an agreement on how to proceed but nine greedy states even want more. It's like looting a business after they have already been broken into.

Microsoft has done so much for the consumer. They have built the best product. It's called competition. If competition is unfair then we are nothing but a socialistic country.

Please advise the holdout states to compete with their products and back off attacking (looting) Microsoft.

Sincerely,

Richard L. Carlson
